

FUZZ Collective

The Fuzz Collective is a funk-infused rock outfit based in San Francisco, CA that tastefully mixes tight grooves, soulful melodies, and acid jazz experimentations, all with a retro flair. Led by Jeff Yasuda, CEO of Feed.fm, the group started in the early 2000s and was simply called "Fuzz". After Fuzz took a hiatus for several years, the band was reformed as Fuzz Collective, which sparked a revival in the band's activity in the Bay Area scene with their signature sound and local live performances. Over the years, the band has truly embraced its vision as a collective - working with a varied group of talented musicians in San Francisco both onstage and behind the scenes.
